

My husband is a long distance trucker and he relies on XM radio for his news and weather. When our son was deployed to Iraq, my husband used the news channels to keep up to date on what was happening over there. This has been one of the best things for the the over the road truckers, and we gladly pay the monthly premium to have this service. It's wrong to limit programming on a service that we pay for.